Dear Larry:

I want to take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation to you and many compliments to Roy Fountain for the effective job which he performed for us at the Bureau of Naval Weapons on February 11.

As you know, it is always a pleasure to be in the audience when Roy is performing. He was the only one able to get the group to react and, considering the attendees, it was a real accomplishment.

This particular group represented many of the Management Offices in the Bureau of Naval Weapons and, I might add, are not yet converted to the benefits which could be theirs, if they would only approach value engineering with a positive attitude. This type of reaction, however, only makes our job more challenging.

Again, many thanks for allowing Roy time to perform a very effective service for the Ordnance Department and I hope we can call on him in the future for similar services.
