FEMINIST PERIODICALS
A CURRENT LISTING OF CONTENTS

Volume 32
Number 1
Winter 2012

University of Wisconsin System
Periodical literature is the cutting edge of women’s scholarship, feminist theory, and much of women’s culture. Feminist Periodicals: A Current Listing of Contents is published by the Office of the University of Wisconsin System Women’s Studies Librarian on a quarterly basis with the intent of increasing public awareness of feminist periodicals. It is our hope that Feminist Periodicals will serve several purposes: to keep the reader abreast of current topics in feminist literature; to increase readers’ familiarity with a wide spectrum of feminist periodicals; and to provide the requisite bibliographic information should a reader wish to subscribe to a journal or to obtain a particular article at her library or through interlibrary loan. (Users will need to be aware of the limitations of copyright law with regard to photocopying of copyrighted materials.)

Table of contents pages from current issues of major feminist journals are reproduced in each issue of Feminist Periodicals, followed by a comprehensive annotated listing of all journals we have selected. As publication schedules vary enormously, not every periodical will have table of contents pages reproduced in each issue of FP. The annotated listing provides the following information on each journal:

1. Year of first publication.
2. Frequency of publication.
3. Subscription prices (print only; for online prices, consult publisher).
4. Subscription address.
6. Editorial address (if different from subscription address).
8. OCLC, Inc. Control Number.
9. Selected publications in which the journal is indexed.
10. Selected fulltext products in which publication appears or vendor intermediaries who make the full text available.
11. Subject focus/statement of purpose of the journal.

Please note that in the actual text, only the numbers 1 to 11 are used to identify the different categories of information.
Our goal in Feminist Periodicals is to represent English-language periodicals from around the world that focus on gender, women's studies, or women's issues. Generally, we do not include mainstream newsstand magazines. We are also unable to include periodicals that lack a complete table of contents. We encourage feminist serials to build a full table of contents into their regular format to facilitate possible inclusion in FP and indexing elsewhere.

University of Wisconsin System users: To locate these periodicals within the UW System, do a UW System/Universal Borrowing search from your campus catalog (labeled variously “Other Libraries,” “More Libraries,” “Other Catalogs,” “Other UW Catalogs,” etc.) If information on actual holdings (volumes and issues) is not in the records retrieved, contact the Reference Department at the library of interest.

Suggestions for improvements of Feminist Periodicals are gratefully received. We would particularly appreciate assistance from readers in the UW System with our efforts to keep the holding information complete and up to date. Please let us know about new subscriptions, subscriptions we have overlooked, cancellations, or other pertinent information.

Feminist Periodicals: A Current Listing of Contents (ISSN 1941-725X) is published online, quarterly, by Phyllis Holman Weisbard, UW System Women’s Studies Librarian, 430 Memorial Library, 728 State Street, Madison, WI 53706. Phone (608) 263-5754. Email: wiswsl@library.wisc.edu. Website: http://womenst.library.wisc.edu

Feminist Periodicals is available free of charge at http://womenst.library.wisc.edu/publications/feminist-periodicals.html. A subscription to the publications of the Office of the UW-System Women’s Studies Librarian includes our print publications Feminist Collections: A Quarterly of Women’s Studies Resources and New Books on Women, Gender, & Feminism along with email notification of each new issue of Feminist Periodicals. Subscription rates: Wisconsin subscriptions: $10.00 (individuals affiliated with the UW System), $20.00 (organizations affiliated with the UW System), $20.00 (individuals or non-profit women’s programs), $30.00 (institutions). Out-of-state subscriptions: $35.00 (individuals & women's programs in the U.S.), $65.00 (institutions in the U.S.), $50.00 (individuals & women's programs in Canada/Mexico), $80.00 (institutions in Canada/Mexico), $55.00 (individuals & women's programs elsewhere outside the U.S.), $85.00 (institutions elsewhere outside the U.S.). Wisconsin subscriber amounts include state tax (except UW organizations amount). Feminist Periodicals was originally a print publication (ISSN 0742-7433) from v.1, n.1, 1981 through v.27, n.4, Fall 2007. Printed back issues of these issues are available for $10 each. All prices include postage. Publications of the Office of the UW-System Women's Studies Librarian are available free of charge to UW Women's Studies Offices, UW Campus Women's Centers, and UW Libraries.

Back issues of Feminist Periodicals are archived online at http://digital.library.wisc.edu/1793/259.

American feminist Susan Faludi asserted that after the turn of the 20th century, suffrage solidarity disintegrated into a nightmare of dysfunction. Is it only natural that each generation turns against its feminist mothers?
by Joanna Chiu

WOMEN’S ART AGENCIES TO THE RESCUE ........ 20
Female theatre directors are under-represented on stages in Canada and visual artists face marginalization for overtly feminist works. Coming to the aid of artists (and depicted on our cover in this photo from the performance piece Unruly, created by Shawna Dempsey and Lorri Millan) are women’s art agencies like Nightwood Theatre and Mentoring Artists for Women’s Art.

Michele Anderson, of Pinkie Toes Photography, creates images that are spontaneous, fresh and full of life. She loves watching how moms, dads, new borns and children interact in their families, and uses beautiful light, bold colors and deep contrasts to highlight those incredible moments. Her portfolio and recent works can be found at www.pinkletoes.com.
“We need to show [others] what might seem obvious to us: Women are everywhere. Everything is our concern.”

6 WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS: 30 YEARS OF CREATING WOMEN'S CULTURE WITH THE MOTHERPEACE TAROT

Interview by Nikki Jardin

An exclusive interview with Motherpeace Tarot co-creators Karen Vogel and Vicki Noble about the amazing process of bringing the first genuinely feminist Tarot deck into being.

13 SPIN ME A YARN

Ashling Kelly

We are all the weavers; we are all the web. Each breath is a silken spoke in the web, reaching back before time began and flying forward to a time beyond our reckoning.

16 LIFE IN THE ROUND: SPIDER WOMAN SPEAKS

Marilyn Steele

It is time to become a culture of dreamers, to awaken to the ecology of self we need. To listen to the emergent wisdom of the dynamic, transformative feminine.

19 GLIMPSES OF MAYA: WEAVER OF CREATION

Savatri Bess

As a tapestry weaver I have touched an ethereal web that has connected me to people and places all over the world.

25 IN THE PRESENCE OF WILDERNESS

Julie McIntyre

When we grow up disconnected from wild nature holes are created within us. These empty places can only successfully be filled by stone, oak, wild rivers and secret places in the wild.

29 LESSONS FROM DEER WOMAN

M.C. Reardon

I have to remind myself that nature does not live in the boundaries that we do, in tiny squares we can see in a satellite map of our neighborhoods, but within the vast landscape that we have built our homes upon.

"Mother Ocean" by Alanna Marohnic
Features (cont.)

32 Beach Combing
Mary Zelinka
At the beginning of my retreat, the seven days stretched out endlessly before me, the way summer did when I was a child. Now I'm amazed that the time has passed so quickly.

39 Dances with Sheep: Finding Magic in the Braid of Life
Priscilla Berggren-Thomas
I came to England looking for some extraordinary experience, but here in these humble animals I've found my answer. They have been part of our daily lives and rituals, part of our search for meaning, and part of our struggle to stay alive. They have borne witness for us.

"Il tue l’Ame sans sejour": Locating the Subject in a Chanson Spirituelle of Marguerite de Navarre
Jeff Kendrick.............................................................................12

Marguerite de Navarre’s understudied Chansons spirituelles incorporate an underlying fascination with how a work of literature constructs and simultaneously undermines (or kills) its subject. Many of the chansons accomplish this by describing the narrator’s spiritual experience and religious longing for death and rebirth. Multiple layers of meaning, however, also allow the poems to be read as an exploration of the blurry spaces between authority and authorship in the text, between the self and God and between literary subject and object. The texts present a contradictory and multi-layered image of an emergent self that leaves the reader simultaneously more and less sure of the soul’s relationship to the divine. What promises to be a simple contemplation of Christ’s worthiness to be desired becomes a boundary-blurring dialogue that erases the limits between self and the Divine Other to whom it purports to point. The idea of authority and who has the right to speak in the text lies at the heart of this enigma. Marguerite’s theology at once dominates and submits to her poetry. The image of the self moves from object to subject and back to object as it seeks to differentiate itself from and define itself in relation to God. Using and manipulating pre-established poetic codes from the medieval tradition, the text creates a circle that further pixilates an already protean image of the self. Unable to resolve its true position in the poem, the soul is forced to accept the constraints placed on it from within and without. Ultimately, the soul fails in its attempt at complete unity with Christ, but this failure only serves to highlight a basic personal awareness of ‘self’ in the poem and confirms the view of the idea of ‘subjectivity’ as elusive, indeterminate and prone to conflict.

Riccoboni’s 1768 Letter to the Mercure de France: Reclaiming a Woman Writer’s Literary Legacy
Marijn S. Kaplan.......................................................................24
Marie Jeanne Riccoboni boldly went public in a relatively unknown 1768 letter addressed to Pierre-Antoine de la Place, the editor of the Mercure de France, wishing to rectify a capital error propagated in l’Esprit des femmes célèbres by Pons-Augustin Alletz, in which all her work had been attributed to her mother-in-law, Elena “Flaminia” Riccoboni, a talented Italian actress and author in her own right. Thus reclaiming her literary legacy in a predominantly male public forum, she confronts issues related not only to public and private but also to gender and genre, while at the same time shedding light on the little-studied relationship between her and her mother-in-law. I will examine how Riccoboni defends and negotiates her precarious professional status as a best-selling woman writer in male-dominated Enlightenment France and will analyze the nature of the “power with a feminine touch” she uses to do so.

Lucie Aubrac: Rewriting Genre and Motherhood

Adleen Crapo ........................................................................ 52

This article discusses Lucie Aubrac’s memoir of her life as a résistante and pregnant woman, Ils partiront dans l’ivresse. Aubrac’s memoir spans the nine months of her second pregnancy, which also coincided with some of her most dangerous resistance work. This article discusses the ways in which Aubrac employs her pregnancy in the service of literary suspense, while eschewing more traditional discourses of pregnancy. This article discusses the ways in which Aubrac utilizes generic hybridity to portray her wartime experiences without recourse to Vichy stereotypes. In so doing, this article demonstrates the ways in which Ils partiront dans l’ivresse became more than the sum of its parts, and a new genre, the roman à suspens au féminin.
Nightbirds, Nightmares and the Mothers’ Smile: Art and Psychoanalysis in Sarah Kofman’s Life-Writing

F. K. Clementi ................................................................. 67

This article explores Sarah Kofman’s last text, her Holocaust memoir Rue Ordener, Rue Labat (1994). While Kofman’s career was famously devoted to deciphering the legacy of the “Great Fathers” of Western culture and to an incessant dialogue with Sigmund Freud, her memoir centers exclusively on the legacy of mothers: it is Kofman’s study of herself as a child in the grip of terror, the threat of death, and the s/mothering love of two women—her Jewish mother and the French woman who saved them both. This article examines how the exceptionality of the Holocaust exploded the Familienroman (the psychic family drama) in ways that Freud could have not anticipated. I demonstrate how the same way in which Freud had used Leonardo da Vinci’s painting of a double motherhood to prove his point about a son’s Oedipal crisis and the origin of his art, Kofman used the same image to interpret her story of double motherhood, victimhood and the origin of her art and creativity.

Humour, engagement et création littéraire chez Anne Garreta

María Dolores Vivero García .............................................. 85

Depuis son premier roman Sphinx, où le questionnement autour du genre nous confronte aux conventions culturelles et sociales, l’œuvre d’Anne Garreta allie les jeux de la création littéraire à la contestation de l’ordre dominant. Dans cet article, nous analysons ces jeux scripturaux et nous mettons en évidence les enjeux de cette écriture qui vise à engendrer la réflexion tout d’abord sur elle-même et sur les limites entre fiction et réalité. Nous nous arrêtons ensuite sur son livre Pour en finir avec le genre humain afin de souligner comment les jeux littéraires s’articulent, chez Garreta, à la critique, par un rire corrosif et décapsant, de l’ordre social et politique post-moderne.

Close Encounters of the Abject Kind: The Intercultural Female Body in Amélie Nothomb’s Japan

Mary Jane Cowles .......................................................... 94

While a few studies have referred to Kristevan notions of the abject in approaches to Amélie Nothomb’s oeuvre, this article proposes fuller exploration of the theory articulated in Pouvoirs de l’horreur in order to enrich our understanding of the Belgian writer’s work, particularly her auto-fictions set in the Japan of her early childhood and young adulthood. In addition to illuminating key aspects of the narrator’s evocation of pre-conscious life and the birth of desire, Kristeva’s theory elucidates the narrator’s mix of fascination and repulsion for particular images, her oral fantasies, the horror and seduction of the loss of self, and the ambiguity of the encounter with the cultural Other of Japan. Finally, this article uses Kristeva’s analysis to suggest an explanation for the narrator’s turn to writing and highlights the function of choice in her response to the abject.
Gender Criticism and Popular Music Studies: Envisioning Women Artists and Why France begs to Differ

Aaron Prevots.................................................................108

This article considers contemporary analysis of women in popular music and in French chanson, focusing in particular on the celebration of female agency and identity as an Anglo-American phenomenon less typical in France. It hypothesizes that while some critical approaches function well as templates across cultures, others do not transfer as automatically, due to women’s roles in shaping French popular music historically, the subversive and elastic nature of the chanson genre lyrically and formally, and the relevance of national pride to French criticism and commercialization anthropologically. Anglo-American studies are foregrounded in order to emphasize stark contrasts and possible future directions for research regarding France. The primary objectives are to note theoretical stances in the field of popular music and gender and to consider why commentary on women in French music today has its own unique criteria and biases.

11. “Aspasia is an international peer-reviewed yearbook that brings out the best scholarship in the field of interdisciplinary women's and gender history focused on—and produced in—Central, Eastern, and Southeastern Europe. This region includes such countries as Albania, Belarus, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, the Czech Republic, Estonia, Greece, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Macedonia, Moldova, Montenegro, Poland, Romania, Russia, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Turkey, and Ukraine. In these countries the field of women’s and gender history has developed unevenly and has remained only marginally represented in the "international" canon. Through its contributions, Aspasia transforms “European women’s history” into more than Western European women’s history, as is still often the case, and expands the comparative angle of research on women and gender to all parts of Europe.”

ATLANTIS: A WOMEN’S STUDIES JOURNAL

9. Project MUSE.
11. “The primary mission of Black Women, Gender & Families (BWGF) is to analyze, develop, and further Black Women's Studies paradigms. It centers the study of Black women and gender within the critical discourses of history, the social sciences, and the humanities. Second, this journal provides an Africana/Black Studies and Women’s Studies cross-field and interdisciplinary venue for Black womanist and Black feminist theories, methodologies, and analyses. Third, it more fully integrates gender as an analytic category, and strengthens Black Women's Studies as a paradigm for studying black women, gender, families, and communities—especially policy-related issues within the broader disciplines of Black Studies and Women’s Studies. Fourth, this journal provides the space for interdisciplinary, comparative/transnational studies of Global Africa/the African Diaspora and other women, families, and communities of color, using Black Women's Studies frameworks.”

Both national and international in focus, JGL is intended to serve as a forum for topics inadequately addressed in most law journals and reviews, including issues concerning women, children, family, sexuality, reproductive rights, and violence. The articles in JGL approach legal issues from a variety of disciplines. We aim to promote an expansive view of feminism embracing women and men of all colors, classes, sexual orientations, and cultures.”

Each issue of this annual journal reflects the energies of this rapidly growing field by publishing essays, art exhibition and book reviews, bibliographies, and a forum on a current topic of interest to the study of early modern women. Essays may consider women and gender from any region of the globe and may develop a number of scholarly perspectives, including but not limited to art history, cultural studies, history, history of philosophy, history of science, literature, music, politics, religion, or theater. Approaches that challenge current assumptions and cross disciplinary boundaries are especially welcome.”

11. Feminist Studies was founded to encourage analytic responses to feminist issues and to open new areas of research, criticism and speculation. The editors are committed to providing a forum for feminist analysis, debate, and exchange. The feminist movement has demonstrated that the study of women is more than a compensatory project. Instead, feminism has the potential fundamentally to reshape the way we view the world. We wish not just to interpret women's experiences but to change women's condition. For us, feminist thought represents a transformation of consciousness, social forms, and modes of action."

"Femspec, a peer-reviewed journal, is interested in developing a community of like-minded people engaged in speculating, theorizing, creating and questioning gender across the boundaries, including issues of sexual orientation. We emphasize interdisciplinary approaches, and encourage work on teaching as well as literary and cultural criticism and creative material. We hope an approach to pedagogy will bring in work from a wider area of disciplines. We are interested in a variety of feminisms and aim to be inclusive of ethnic and cultural diversity in an internationalist perspective. We are also committed to publishing feminist experimental prose and poetic works, and to experimenting across media. Our impetus came from the collectively-perceived lack of attention to non-linear writing, sf, fantasy, magical realism and supernatural works in feminist journals and audiences; the lack of consistently evolving developed levels of feminism in sf criticism; and the inadequacy of magical realism publishing outlets in the U.S."

11. "Gender and Language is the journal of the International Gender and Language Association (IGALA). It is an international forum for research on and debates about feminist research on gender and language. Gender is defined broadly, as a key element of social relationships often loosely linked to perceived differences between the sexes as well as a primary arena for articulating power in complex interaction with other dimensions of power, like class, race, and sexuality. It welcomes research employing and investigating a range of different linguistic approaches (including, but not only including, conversation analysis, critical discourse analysis, ethnography of communication, interactional sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, variationist sociolinguistics, stylistics and pragmatics) which focus on a range of different linguistic phenomena."

11. "Awareness of gender as a central feature of all aspects of everyday life and society has become more and more widespread. Appropriately social sciences research is reflecting this increasing concern with gender, especially in the field of work and organization where this journal is focused. Gender, Work and Organization is the first journal to bring together a wide range of interdisciplinary and multi-disciplinary research in this field into a new international forum for debate and analysis. The journal is dedicated to advancing theory, research and applications concerning gender relations at work, the organization of gender, and the gendering of organizations. Contributions are invited from all disciplinary perspectives, including anthropology, history, labour economics, law, philosophy, politics, psychology and sociology."

These include Muslim and non-Muslim communities within the greater Middle East, and Muslim and Middle-Eastern communities elsewhere in the world. Articles dealing with men, masculinity, children and the family, or other issues of gender are also considered. The journal strives to include significant studies of theory and methodology as well as topical matter. Approximately one-third of the submissions focus on the pre-modern era, with the majority of articles focusing on the contemporary age. The journal features several full-length articles and current book reviews. The majority of Hawwa's articles are in English. However, articles submitted in French are also considered.

Since its inception in 1986 as an independent journal, Hypatia has been both a catalyst for broadening and refining feminist philosophy, and an invaluable resource for those who teach in this area. Feminist philosophy arises out of diverse traditions and methods within philosophy, and is also richly interdisciplinary in orientation; we are committed to publishing articles that are broadly accessible. Hypatia serves as a resource for the wider women’s studies community, for philosophers generally, and for all those interested in philosophical issues raised by feminism."

11. International Journal of Gender, Science and Technology (GST) is an open access, peer reviewed journal that welcomes contributions from practitioners, researchers and policy makers concerned with gender issues in and of science and technology, including engineering, construction and the built environment. Research in these areas is of interest not only to academics, but also to employers and educators involved in these sectors. We welcome contributions from a variety of disciplines and interdisciplinary perspectives and drawing on a wide range of theoretical frameworks. Our aim is to help foster and provide a focus for constructive debate and interchange of ideas between key players and experts in this field—promoting the sharing of knowledge and new understandings. GST enables those outside of academic institutions to have access to research data and results to inform strategies, responses and progress. Academic researchers will benefit from access to case studies and reports developed by practitioners and policy makers.

11. "Persimmon Tree showcases an impressive variety of literature and art by women over 60, many still working well into their 80s and 90s. Many of the writers and artists are well-known: Marilyn French, Ruth Stone, Grace Paley, E. M. Broner, Paula Gunn Allen, Jane Lazarre, Faith Ringgold, and Nicole Hollander. Others are lesser known, while some are newly developing their craft in their later years. All of them are at the height of their creative powers, and all of them express the shared, though diverse experiences of aging women, from late middle age to late old age. Persimmon Tree is intended to fill a niche that has been neglected by contemporary publishing, whether in print or online. There is a growing body of work by male writers and artists who are entering or well into old age. But the comparable body of work by aging women in much smaller and mostly limited to a few already well-known writers and artists. Women are creating, but they are not getting the exposure they deserve."

The aim of Reproductive Health Matters is "to promote laws, policies, research and services that meet women's reproductive health needs and support women's right to decide whether, when and how to have children.... [its] women-centered perspective...allows us to identify and understand women's reproductive health needs, and therefore evaluate and improve on existing policy and practice to women's benefit.... To this end, the journal explores what is meant by women's needs and how these can best be met. It addresses fundamental values, concerns and dilemmas, acknowledging the multi-faceted nature of problems and solutions. Finally, it reflects on commonalities and differences in goals and points of view among those involved in the field -- in order to foster increased communication and cooperation, new thinking and action, and new forms of consensus."

10. “Studies in Gender and Sexuality is a response to the excitement attendant to recent research and writing by scholars and clinicians. It provides a forum for examining gender and sexuality that is both multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary. As clinicians and scholars who have written and practiced at the intersection of feminist theory and clinical psychoanalysis, the editors are especially interested in those areas of controversy that invite the divergent perspectives and insights of different disciplines. Early issues of SGS focus on transgender identities and intersexuality; contemporary readings of the category of perversion; puberty and adolescence revised and revisited; and the intersections among class, race, and gender in theory, culture, and the clinical situation. The primary goal of SGS is to promote dialogue on these and other timely topics among clinicians, researchers, and theorists. Consonant with this goal, the journal also publishes related work from the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences, where questions involving gender and sexuality are currently in lively debate.

   challenges media images of women and serves as a vehicle of change, improving young women’s social and economic status. Teen Voices provides an intelligent alternative to the glitzy, gossipy fashion-oriented publications that too often exploit the insecurities of their young audience. Teen Voices is the premier national magazine written by young women, publishing their authentic voices. Teen Voices encourages expression, not suppression — it honors the sensibilities, ideals, hopes, fears, anger, joy, and experiential insights of teenage and young adult women.”
