Hello Folks all; All is good here so I want communicate it promptly.

The 15th treatment (of 30) was this morning - so I'm on the way "home" now.

So far, no discomfort. No side effects. I eat good (especially when we are at Sedgefield) "no-residue" foods. Get hungry. Appetite good. Foods taste good. I love ice cream. Eat it 3 times/day.. Last weekend mowed the lawn, weeded the gardens and in other ways lived a normal life.

I know that side effects are apt to come along later in the treatment. If they do they do. In the meantime I want you all to relax, and we're enjoying each day. Our Dr said that about half of the patients do not have troublesome side effects. They take and test blood each Monday. An examination by the Dr each Wed - tomorrow.

Was real fun living last weekend. Eleanor invited some of our fine friends in for cocktails-dinner-bridge. My first (water) cocktail party. The whole evening was great fun, and brought us back to feelings of "normalcy" again.

Of course it's delightful to be "entrapped" here with Eleanor all week. Great, great, great! Haven't played any bridge here - my company I've seen could lessen the beautiful cocoon of consideration, love and excitement which Eleanor creates for me to live in.

Love You, Larry
