Periodical literature is the cutting edge of women’s scholarship, feminist theory, and much of women’s culture. Feminist Periodicals: A Current Listing of Contents is published by the Office of the University of Wisconsin System Women’s Studies Librarian on a quarterly basis with the intent of increasing public awareness of feminist periodicals. It is our hope that Feminist Periodicals will serve several purposes: to keep the reader abreast of current topics in feminist literature; to increase readers’ familiarity with a wide spectrum of feminist periodicals; and to provide the requisite bibliographic information should a reader wish to subscribe to a journal or to obtain a particular article at her library or through interlibrary loan. (Users will need to be aware of the limitations of copyright law with regard to photocopying of copyrighted materials.)

Table of contents pages from current issues of major feminist journals are reproduced in each issue of Feminist Periodicals, followed by a comprehensive annotated listing of all journals we have selected. As publication schedules vary enormously, not every periodical will have table of contents pages reproduced in each issue of FP. The annotated listing provides the following information on each journal:

1. Year of first publication.
2. Frequency of publication.
3. Subscription prices (print only; for online prices, consult publisher).
4. Subscription address.
6. Editorial address (if different from subscription address).
8. OCLC, Inc. Control Number.
9. Selected publications in which the journal is indexed.
10. Selected fulltext products in which publication appears or vendor intermediaries who make the full text available.
11. Subject focus/statement of purpose of the journal.

Please note that in the actual text, only the numbers 1 to 11 are used to identify the different categories of information.
Our goal in Feminist Periodicals is to represent English-language periodicals from around the world that focus on gender, women's studies, or women's issues. Generally, we do not include mainstream newsstand magazines. We are also unable to include periodicals that lack a complete table of contents. We encourage feminist serials to build a full table of contents into their regular format to facilitate possible inclusion in FP and indexing elsewhere.

University of Wisconsin System users: To locate these periodicals within the UW System, do a UW System/Universal Borrowing search from your campus catalog (labeled variously “Other Libraries,” “More Libraries,” “Other Catalogs,” “Other UW Catalogs,” etc.) If information on actual holdings (volumes and issues) is not in the records retrieved, contact the Reference Department at the library of interest.

Suggestions for improvements of Feminist Periodicals are gratefully received. We would particularly appreciate assistance from readers in the UW System with our efforts to keep the holding information complete and up to date. Please let us know about new subscriptions, subscriptions we have overlooked, cancellations, or other pertinent information.

Feminist Periodicals: A Current Listing of Contents (ISSN 1941-725X) is published online, quarterly, by Karla J. Strand, UW System Gender & Women’s Studies Librarian, 430 Memorial Library, 728 State Street, Madison, WI 53706. Phone (608) 263-5754. Email: wiswsl@library.wisc.edu. Website: http://womenst.library.wisc.edu

Feminist Periodicals is available free of charge at http://womenst.library.wisc.edu/publications/feminist-periodicals.html. A subscription to the publications of the Office of the UW-System Women’s Studies Librarian includes our print publications Feminist Collections: A Quarterly of Women’s Studies Resources and New Books on Women, Gender, & Feminism along with email notification of each new issue of Feminist Periodicals. Subscription rates: Wisconsin subscriptions: $10.00 (individuals affiliated with the UW System), $20.00 (organizations affiliated with the UW System), $20.00 (individuals or non-profit women’s programs), $30.00 (institutions). Out-of-state subscriptions: $35.00 (individuals & women’s programs in the U.S.), $65.00 (institutions in the U.S.), $50.00 (individuals & women’s programs in Canada/Mexico), $80.00 (institutions in Canada/Mexico), $55.00 (individuals & women’s programs elsewhere outside the U.S.), $85.00 (institutions elsewhere outside the U.S.). Wisconsin subscriber amounts include state tax (except UW organizations amount). Feminist Periodicals was originally a print publication (ISSN 0742-7433) from v.1, n.1, 1981 through v.27, n.4, Fall 2007. Printed back issues of these issues are available for $10 each. All prices include postage. Publications of the Office of the UW-System Women’s Studies Librarian are available free of charge to UW Women’s Studies Offices, UW Campus Women’s Centers, and UW Libraries.

Back issues of Feminist Periodicals are archived online at http://digital.library.wisc.edu/1793/259.

"Note: "The Columbia Journal of Gender and Law’s Issues are not sequential because the annual Symposium hosted by the Center for Gender and Sexuality Law is published in its own Volume. The Journal also publishes one Volume consisting of two Issues each academic year, so depending on when the Symposium Volume is completed, the numbering of the Issues may become non-sequential."

20

Should a Jewish Girl Wear a Dirndl?
by Karen Engel
In Germany and Austria, traditional German peasant dresses, like the Dirndl—once forbidden for Jews to wear—have made a comeback. Is it okay when even the author's daughters are wearing them? And here's a rundown of the restrictions on Jewish women's clothing over the centuries, in case you thought the yellow star was a first.

Cover photo by Emily Robinson (www.emilyrobinsonphoto.com). Emily is a lifestyle family photographer in South Florida who specializes in maternity, birth, newborn and family portraiture. Her work focuses on storytelling and capturing authentic emotional connections between people. When she's not shooting, editing or obsessing over photography, she enjoys hanging out with her husband, their two young girls and zany dog, Sonny.

6 GODDESS IN THE DETAILS
Alison Leigh Lilly

It seemed to me as if some great Being were moving through the world, a mighty Goddess who works and dwells in the smallest things. Here She was, moving and being just as She is. I was only some small creature who reached out to touch the hem of her green mantle as She passed by.

12 FINDING ISIS: SHELTERED BY HER WINGS
Jen McConnel

For the first time in this hectic, overwhelming journey, I felt a sense of peace. My husband took one look at the blissful expression on my face, and quietly removed himself, leaving me alone to talk to the Goddess.

16 SEASONS OF MAGIC: CREATING PORTALS TO THE WILD
Kate Temple-West

We are creating a portal into wildness. I have dreamt of the Lenape, the first people who were the caretakers of the sacred island of Manahatta. I have learned that we are living in a time that the Lenape call the Prophecy of the Fourth Crow, a time when all people become true caretakers for our earth.

19 BUILDING THE HIVE: THE GODDESS TEMPLE OF ASHLAND
Prema Gaia

I found my deepest refuge while alone in the forest. This led me to wonder if I would ever find a safe community in which to de-armor myself and drop deeply into my spiritual practices. Now I had found a place and a set of people that supported my quest.

23 RETREAT & RENEW
by Natalie Zaman

Retreat, like magic, can be made more potent with a physical manifestation. A retreat can take prayer and meditation to the next level with extended time, a change of scenery, and structure and added disciplines such as yoga to focus energy.

27 A Place for Deer by Jennifer McCall
I put a hand out toward her, and she didn’t flinch. I walked forward, and she didn’t move. Fifteen feet; a few steps more, and only ten feet remained between bare feet and hooves. Her eyes never left mine.

30 The Red Tent Revival by Lee Walker Warren
It all started with The Red Tent, a novel by Anita Diamant. The title of the book refers to the actual tent in which women would seek comfort and refuge while on their menstrual cycle and while giving birth. For many of us, the book was a touching story about a time long gone. But for others, it inspired a movement.

The Case for the Courtesan Novel Sub-Genre: Counter-Discourse and Intertextuality in de Chabrillan, de la Bigne, and de Pougy
_Courtney A. Sullivan_ ................................................................................................. 9
This essay makes the case for a courtesan novel, a sub-genre of popular fiction by renowned _demi-mondaines_ in France from the Second Empire through the Belle Époque, who challenged in their novels Alexandre Dumas’s portrayal of Marguerite in his _La Dame aux camélias_ (1848), claiming that this work do not only promotes unrealistic stereotypes of courtesans, but also harmful ones. After defining the characteristics of the genre, this essay examines the way Céleste de Chabrillan, who famously privileged the courtesan’s response to her own alienation in her autobiographical _Adieux au monde_ (1854) and her fictional _la Sapho_, inspired Louise (“Valtesse”) de la Bigne (who wrote as “Ego”) to also up her pen to write courtesan fiction just as her protégée Liane de Pougy would during the Belle Époque. In _Isola_, Ego paints the competitive and aspersive _demi-monde_ at the dawn of the Belle Époque. The work, now long-forgotten, though popular when first released, entices readers with its efforts to humanize the _demi-mondaine_, to underscore the societal hypocrisies that fuel its existence, and to refute the stereotypes of the courtesan as a venal and heartless creature.

Less is Gore: Graphic Violence in the Fiction of Judith Gautier
_Juliana Starr_ ............................................................................................................. 27
The exceptionally beautiful Judith Gautier (1845-1917), daughter of Théophile Gautier and Italian opera diva Ernesta Grisi, was raised in the epicenter of Europe’s literary and artistic avant-garde. Among the weekly visitors to her parents’ home were Flaubert, Baudelaire, Delacroix, Dumas, Taine, Mallarmé, Puvis de Chavannes, and the Goncourt brothers. She became a best-selling novelist, an early champion of Richard Wagner, a successful journalist, musicologist and art critic, a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and the first woman elected to the prestigious Goncourt Academy. She was instrumental in introducing Europeans to both Chinese and Japanese poetry. Yet, despite these fascinating and remarkable achievements, critical studies devoted to her are limited to a handful of articles. I attempt to correct this oversight by examining the prominent place accorded to gore, gruesomeness, and the macabre in her works. In so doing, I hope to show how these texts, through their deft handling of traditionally “masculine” subject matter, not only provided an entrée to the rarefied, male-dominated world of nineteenth-century French letters, but also articulated a unique theory of the novel—one that sees fiction writing above all as the expression of the violence inherent to and existing inside representation itself.

Revisiting Isabelle Eberhardt’s Lettres et Journaliers

Marlène Barsoum ........................................................................................................ 41

Isabelle Eberhardt is considered the first Maghrebian writer of French expression (Edmonde Charles-Roux), not only because she traveled in the Maghreb and wrote in French, but rather because she had adopted the Maghreb as her permanent home, embraced its culture, and was an outspoken critic of colonization. Eberhardt traveled extensively in North Africa, at the turn of the twentieth century, and related her experiences in Lettres et Journaliers. This article examines how Eberhardt represents notions of trespass and the creation of the Other in relation to the colonial project. It also invites the reader to reconsider her life and writing from a contemporary perspective by viewing her travel narrative as a memoir of exile and dislocation and by framing the traveler in the context of a cosmopolitan discourse.

Alcestes and Her Sisters: Feminism, Sorority and Tragedy in Yourcenar and Simone’s *Alcestes

Koeth A. Poniewaz ...................................................................................................... 56

This article examines the uses of tragedy for exploring the position of women in two adaptations of the Alcestes myth. The article begins with an analysis of Simone de Beauvoir’s use of tragedy (particularly in Le deuxième sexe), and contextualizes her thinking on the tragic within her contemporaries’ analyses of tragedy and tragic myths. This analysis provides the background for interpretations of plays by Madame Simone (Pauline Porché) and Marguerite Yourcenar. Reading Simone and Yourcenar’s Alcestes adaptations in terms of the reception history of the tragic heroine, the paper shows that these plays explore notions of sorority and female agency in tragic myth to suggest a new pre-history for understanding the complex and under-theorized relationships between tragedy and French feminism.

« Vite elle se referme »: L’opacité dans Le Livre d’Emma de Marie-Célie Agnant

approfondit cette notion en montrant qu’il faut être l’auteur de sa propre opacité, qu’un désir de se faire comprendre limite l’efficacité de l’opacité d’une façon qui est parfois utile, et, enfin, que le passé et le présent, même s’ils sont ovaques l’un vis-à-vis de l’autre, doivent coexister si l’on espère dépasser les horreurs et les effets continus du passé colonial.

11. “Aspasia is an international peer-reviewed yearbook that brings out the best scholarship in the field of interdisciplinary women’s and gender history focused on—and produced in—Central, Eastern, and Southeastern Europe. This region includes such countries as Albania, Belarus, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, the Czech Republic, Estonia, Greece, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Macedonia, Moldova, Montenegro, Poland, Romania, Russia, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Turkey, and Ukraine. In these countries the field of women’s and gender history has developed unevenly and has remained only marginally represented in the “international” canon. Through its contributions, Aspasia transforms “European women’s history” into more than Western European women’s history, as is still often the case, and expands the comparative angle of research on women and gender to all parts of Europe.”

"Berkeley Journal of Gender, Law & Justice, a continuation of the Berkeley Women's Law Journal, is guided by an editorial policy which distinguishes us from other law reviews and feminist journals. Our mandate is to publish research, analysis, narrative, theory, and commentary that address the lives and struggles of underrepresented women. We believe that excellence in feminist legal scholarship requires critical examination of the intersection of gender with one or more other axes of subordination, including, but not limited to, race, class, sexual orientation, and disability. Therefore discussions that treat women as a monolithic group do not fall within our mandate. Because conditions of inequality are continually changing, our mandate is continually evolving.""

Each issue of this annual journal reflects the energies of this rapidly growing field by publishing essays, art exhibition and book reviews, bibliographies, and a forum on a current topic of interest to the study of early modern women. Essays may consider women and gender from any region of the globe and may develop a number of scholarly perspectives, including but not limited to art history, cultural studies, history, history of philosophy, history of science, literature, music, politics, religion, or theater. Approaches that challenge current assumptions and cross disciplinary boundaries are especially welcome."

The editors are committed to providing a forum for feminist analysis, debate, and exchange. The feminist movement has demonstrated that the study of women is more than a compensatory project. Instead, feminism has the potential fundamentally to reshape the way we view the world. We wish not just to interpret women's experiences but to change women's condition. For us, feminist invites contributions from feminist researchers working across a range of disciplines and conceptual perspectives. Feminist Media Studies offers a unique intellectual space bringing together scholars, professionals and activists from around the world to engage with feminist issues and debates in media and communication. Its editorial board and contributors reflect a commitment to the facilitation of international dialogue among researchers, through attention to local, national and global contexts for critical and empirical feminist media inquiry."

11. “Femspec, a peer-reviewed journal, is interested in developing a community of like-minded people engaged in speculating, theorizing, creating and questioning gender across the boundaries, including issues of sexual orientation. We emphasize interdisciplinary approaches, and encourage work on teaching as well as literary and cultural criticism and creative material. We hope an approach to pedagogy will bring in work from a wider area of disciplines. We are interested in a variety of feminisms and aim to be inclusive of ethnic and cultural diversity in an internationalist perspective. We are also committed to publishing feminist experimental prose and poetic works, and to experimenting across media. Our impetus came from the collectively-perceived lack of attention to non-linear writing, sf, fantasy, magical realism and supernatural works in feminist journals and audiences; the lack of consistently evolving developed levels of feminism in sf criticism; and the inadequacy of magical realism publishing outlets in the U.S.”

It is an international forum for research on and debates about feminist research on gender and language. Gender is defined broadly, as a key element of social relationships often loosely linked to perceived differences between the sexes as well as a primary arena for articulating power in complex interaction with other dimensions of power, like class, race, and sexuality. It welcomes research employing and investigating a range of different linguistic approaches (including, but not only including, conversation analysis, critical discourse analysis, ethnography of communication, interactional sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, variationist sociolinguistics, stylistics and pragmatics) which focus on a range of different linguistic phenomena.”

"International Journal of Gender, Science and Technology (GST) is an open access, peer reviewed journal that welcomes contributions from practitioners, researchers and policy makers concerned with gender issues in and of science and technology, including engineering, construction and the built environment. Research in these areas is of interest not only to academics, but also to employers and educators involved in these sectors. We welcome contributions from a variety of disciplines and interdisciplinary perspectives and drawing on a wide range of theoretical frameworks. Our aim is to help foster and provide a focus for constructive debate and interchange of ideas between key players and experts in this field—promoting the sharing of knowledge and new understandings. GST enables those outside of academic institutions to have access to research data and results to inform strategies, responses and progress. Academic researchers will benefit from access to case studies and reports developed by practitioners and policy makers.”

9.  “The Journal of Feminist Scholarship is a peer-reviewed, open-access journal published online and aimed at promoting feminist scholarship across the disciplines, as well as expanding the reach and definitions of feminist research. We conceive the mission of the JFS as an exploration of the state of feminist scholarship at the turn of the new century, and we see this endeavor as part of a larger question of where feminism itself is heading. We wish to encourage a discussion of feminist thought for the twenty-first century. What are its directions today, and what relationship does it sustain with the foundations laid down by feminist inquiry and action of earlier centuries? We aim to publish work that explores the multiple theoretical paradigms and political agendas of contemporary and historical feminist scholarship and the potential intersections and tensions between these paradigms and agendas. We are especially interested in examining productive controversies and divergences between local and global contexts of feminism. We also welcome submissions that focus on feminist pedagogies and activism.”

11. "Persimmon Tree showcases an impressive variety of literature and art by women over 60, many still working well into their 80s and 90s. Many of the writers and artists are well-known: Marilyn French, Ruth Stone, Grace Paley, E. M. Broner, Paula Gunn Allen, Jane Lazarre, Faith Ringgold, and Nicole Hollanders. Others are lesser known, while some are newly developing their craft in their later years. All of them are at the height of their creative powers, and all of them express the shared, though diverse experiences of aging women, from late middle age to late old age. Persimmon Tree is intended to fill a niche that has been neglected by contemporary publishing, whether in print or online. There is a growing body of work by male writers and artists who are entering or well into old age. But the comparable body of work by aging women in much smaller and mostly limited to a few already well-known writers and artists. Women are creating, but they are not getting the exposure they deserve."

The aim of Reproductive Health Matters is “to promote laws, policies, research and services that meet women’s reproductive health needs and support women’s right to decide whether, when and how to have children. . . . [its] women-centered perspective. . . . allows us to identify and understand women’s reproductive health needs, and therefore evaluate and improve on existing policy and practice to women’s benefit. . . . To this end, the journal explores what is meant by women’s needs and how these can best be met. It addresses fundamental values, concerns and dilemmas, acknowledging the multi-faceted nature of problems and solutions. Finally, it reflects on commonalities and differences in goals and points of view among those involved in the field – in order to foster increased communication and cooperation, new thinking and action, and new forms of consensus.”

11. “Studies in Gender and Sexuality is a response to the excitement attendant to recent research and writing by scholars and clinicians. It provides a forum for examining gender and sexuality that is both multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary. As clinicians and scholars who have written and practiced at the intersection of feminist theory and clinical psychoanalysis, the editors are especially interested in those areas of controversy that invite the divergent perspectives and insights of different disciplines. Early issues of SGS focus on transgender identities and intersexuality; contemporary readings of the category of perversion; puberty and adolescence revised and revisited; and the intersections among class, race, and gender in theory, culture, and the clinical situation. The primary goal of SGS is to promote dialogue on these and other timely topics among clinicians, researchers, and theorists. Consonant with this goal, the journal also publishes related work from the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences, where questions involving gender and sexuality are currently in lively debate.”

11. “The purpose of the journal is to encourage and promote an understanding of how visual culture constructs gender in context with representations of race, age, sexuality, social units, and social class. The significance of visual culture for art education rests not so much in the object or image, but in the learning and teaching processes or practices used to expose culturally learned meanings and power relations that surround the creation, consumption, valuing, and dissemination of images. Similarly, the significance of gender for art education involves issues of equity and social justice in the learning, teaching, and practicing of art."

11. “Women & Language is an interdisciplinary research periodical and newsletter, associated with the Organization for the Study of Communication Language and Gender, which seeks to provide a feminist forum for those interested in communication, language and gender. It raises questions on the construction of gender and the interconnections among sex, gender, race, class, and heteronormative hegemony with regard to symbolic communications and the impacts of masculinist communication paradigms. Women & Language welcomes completed research, essays, personal narratives, poetry, as well as work in progress and information sharing on conferences, publications, and so on. It includes contributions from all disciplines, and particularly looks for interdisciplinary work.”
