In the spring of 2020, I finished my first year of school, implementing a plan for research and future courses, and balanced life changes such as COVID-19 pandemic.

I will begin to mature in my academic endeavors as I learn the process of researching and solidify my topic and questions.

I will find new opportunities to be planted again, to continue the cycle of learning and growth.

I am growing through learning in my classes, understanding my own place, and realizing the impact of the safe and just space for humanity.

I was planted in the spring of 2019. Throughout the summer and fall I began my classes, attended residency, and moved to rural Nebraska.

Through my own harvesting I can help to plant new seeds of knowledge and assist in the growth cycle of new students.

I will be harvested when I publish my work and graduate from UWSP a Doctor of Education.

Sprouting
My First Year as a Doctoral Student
Emily Norman
Doctorate of Education
Educational Sustainability
University of Wisconsin - Stevens Point

I will mature in my research, the dissertation process, and continued experiences professionally and academically.

I will find new opportunities to be planted again, to continue the cycle of learning and growth.

Through my own harvesting I can help to plant new seeds of knowledge and assist in the growth cycle of new students.

I will be harvested when I publish my work and graduate from UWSP a Doctor of Education.

Sprouting
My First Year as a Doctoral Student
Emily Norman
Doctorate of Education
Educational Sustainability
University of Wisconsin - Stevens Point

I will mature in my research, the dissertation process, and continued experiences professionally and academically.

I will find new opportunities to be planted again, to continue the cycle of learning and growth.

Through my own harvesting I can help to plant new seeds of knowledge and assist in the growth cycle of new students.

I will be harvested when I publish my work and graduate from UWSP a Doctor of Education.

Sprouting
My First Year as a Doctoral Student
Emily Norman
Doctorate of Education
Educational Sustainability
University of Wisconsin - Stevens Point

I will mature in my research, the dissertation process, and continued experiences professionally and academically.

I will find new opportunities to be planted again, to continue the cycle of learning and growth.

Through my own harvesting I can help to plant new seeds of knowledge and assist in the growth cycle of new students.

I will be harvested when I publish my work and graduate from UWSP a Doctor of Education.