The McNair Scholars Journal of the University of Wisconsin Superior

Table of Contents

Investigating Viability of Wild Rice Beds at Varying Water Depths
Brittany Brown ............................................................1-17

Death with Dignity: Social Worker Perspectives on Ethics and Values
Jade Cone ...............................................................18-31

Racial Disparities in Incarceration Rates
Shantae Golen-Marquardt ..................................................32-50

Influence of Mindfulness on Approach Motivation for Individuals Experiencing Depression
Rachel Hanson .............................................................51-62

Body and Voice: A Cultural Studies Analysis of the Authenticity of Mary Price’s Slave Narrative
Scott Holmes ...............................................................63-78

Herodotus’ Depiction of the Abductions of Io, Europa, Medea, and Helen Linda Parranto ..........................................................79-88
Treblinka: Death Camp to Commemoration Site

Stephanie Reese ........................................................................................................89-105

Mindfulness Techniques and their Impact in Social Work Practice

Rachel Turner ........................................................................................................106-119

Drug Dealer and Drug Users: Who’s to Blame for the Drug Crisis?

Julian Williams ....................................................................................................120-135

Single-Molecule Studies of Environmental Ionic-Strength Sensors using Fluorescence Correlation Spectroscopy (FCS)

Abayneh Worku .....................................................................................................136-150
A Note to Readers

It is with great pleasure that the University of Wisconsin-Superior presents our twentieth edition of The McNair Scholars Journal. These papers are a culmination of research the scholars began in January and completed over the summer of 2019. The papers presented here are representative of the diverse group of students in the program and their current or intended fields of interest in graduate school.

The McNair Scholars Program began at the University of Wisconsin-Superior in the fall of 1999. The McNair Program was originally established in 1986 by the U.S. Department of Education to prepare low income, first generation college students and students from groups underrepresented in graduate education for study at the doctoral level. There are a total of 151 programs nationwide with nine programs housed within the UW System.

We would like to thank the scholars for their hard work and dedication to the program. We are proud of the students’ work contained in this journal and support them wholeheartedly in their future educational and career pursuits. We would also like to thank our mentors for providing students with guidance, direction, and support in their respective projects.

Monte Stewart, Director

The McNair Scholars Program
2047 Swenson Hall
801 N 28th Street
Superior, WI 54880
(715) 394-8043
www.uwsuper.edu/mcnair